HISTORY

Answer: At the time of the match, Germany were the world champions, having won the FIFA World Cup in 2014. Ireland were massive underdogs in the match, and nobody expected them to defeat the world champions. The win guaranteed that Ireland would achieve at least a playoff in their quest to qualify for Euro 2016 but could still qualify automatically if they defeated Poland later that same week. Ireland were defeated by Poland but went on to defeat Bosnia and Herzegovina in the playoff and qualified for Euro 2016. This was only the third time in history that Ireland qualified for the European Championship Finals.
